When schools were shuttered last spring due to the pandemic, educators did their best to keep teaching through the end of the school year. But even the most tech-savvy teachers have admitted that they were operating in survival mode.

Now that a new year has started and remote teaching is still a reality (or a potential reality) for many schools, now is the time to not just survive while remote teaching—but to thrive. With the engaging strategies shared during this workshop, teachers will be able to plan and execute instruction and assessment to move students toward mastery of any skill or concept.

During this 3-hour virtual workshop for K-12 teachers, participants will learn how fundamental best-practice strategies can be systematically applied to remote teaching using live and recorded video.

Executing Remote Teaching

A VIRTUAL WORKSHOP FOR K-12 TEACHERS

Topics covered:

- ✓ Learn the subtle but significant differences between telling & assigning and teaching & assessing.
- ✓ Recognize the same 4 steps of every whole-class lesson—whether delivered in person, streamed live, or pre-recorded.
- ✓ View several recorded literacy lessons and analyze them for content, delivery, and engagement.
- ✓ Address the need to build background knowledge before tackling new concepts.
- ✓ Discuss how unit content is stretched across several weeks of whole-class, small-group, and independent tasks.

When you complete the workshop, you'll be able to:

- ✓ Plan and execute a virtual lesson for any skill that includes an I do, We do, and You do.
- ✓ Strengthen your own virtual teaching to maximize student engagement.
- ✓ Determine when content is best suited for live delivery versus pre-recorded instruction.
- ✓ Create a “classroom” space within your home that includes the 3 most essential teaching tools.
- ✓ Build students’ background knowledge on the first days of any new unit—even when teaching remotely.
- ✓ Develop a unit plan that progresses from whole-class instruction to independent assessment.

MEET THE PRESENTER

KRISTINA SMEKENS

Kristina has a gift for making the complex seem simple—for showing teachers how to meet the needs of readers and writers by bridging the gap between education research and practical, classroom-tested strategies that work.

When she presents at state and national conferences, teachers flock to her sessions because they know Kristina will share strategies they can use in their own classrooms the very next day.

Beyond providing teachers with practical classroom techniques, Kristina is also a master of motivation. By demonstrating enthusiasm for innovation, she helps educators find the encouragement they need to return to their classrooms and execute change.

What you'll get:

- ✓ Three hours of relevant and engaging professional development.
- ✓ Live interaction with Kristina Smekens in the chat area during the workshop.
- ✓ A downloadable handout filled with resources related to the workshop.
- ✓ 30-day access to the workshop video replay.
- ✓ Three hours of continuing education credit, including a completion certificate.
- ✓ Tools and motivation to tackle teaching like a pro during the era of COVID-19.
